FASHIONS IN JEWELRY.

For the woman who loves the weire here are the new snake girdles and hains of white metal. These snakes are wonderfully and fearfully flexible and their jeweled eyes gleam effectively.

Cameos are quite fashionable again and are seen on belt buckles and belt pins. One effective way of ssing a cameo is to set it in the top of an umbrella handle, as was seen in a certain jewelry shop.

A unique comb for the hair is orna-mented with a swinging net of gold chains joined in a lattice pattern with pearls, the whole being fastened to the top of the comb and falling gracefully over the being when falling gracefully over the hair when the comb is in place.

Brooches come in many design hough the round shapes seem to be the most favored. There are tur-quoise and emerald matrix ones, unished with designs of red and brownish gold. Baroque pearls seem to be more popular than ever and are seen set in all kinds of jewelry. Large petaled flowers of these pearls rest upon broad golden leaves and sprays of lily of the valley are caught together with fine gold wire.

GIRLS ATE BIRD FOOD.

The Ludierous Mistake Made by Two Prim English Young Women in Paris.

Two English girls had ventured into one of the bonbongeries, or bakeries, which in Paris are so attractive that they are frequented in preference to a cafe by persons in search of a light

The French soda-water fountain, with its bewildering assortment of strange sirups, caught their fancy, but as they had very few French words in their vocabulary they contended themselves with ordering milk, relates a Paris paper.

On the counters were all kinds of the most delicious-looking cookies, but the girls were quite at a loss as to what they were called, and it looked as if they would have to go hungry, when one of them thought of the expedient of helping berself. After a careful inspection, she picked out a generous supply of what appeared to the lightest-looking bread imagir

The attendant offered to wrap it up, for the stuff selected was a bird food and was greatly surprised when the two ladies waved her aside and started in to make a luncheon of it.

However unpalatable it must have een, the frugal British maids seemed think it a sin to waste it, for they bravely ate it and went out firmly convinced that French cooking was a delusion and a snare, while the little waitress merely shrugged her pretty Buggies, shoulders and exclaimed: "Oh, but those English are eccen-

FOG SIGNALS AT SEA.

How Ship Captains Are Guided by the Sirens, or Horns, Through the Channels.

A large proportion of the disasters at sea are due to fog, and any method by which the whereabouts of a vessel can be ascertained in thick weather must be regarded as a great boon. A system is now under trial at Fame Point, on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, a place where fogs occur frequently, says Chambers' Journal. To under-stand the nature of the new fog-signal, let us suppose that at a certain place there are four powerful fog-horns, spread out fanwise, so that each points in a different direction. Each has its distinctive speech, so many blasts, long or short, sounding every minute or so. These sirens can be heard, un-der favorable conditions, at a distance of from 15 to 20 miles. An approaching ship, when it comes into the zone of sound, will hear all the sirens; but one will be much plainer than the other three, for the vessel will be within its particular arc of sound. In a short time, as the ship moves onward, it will come within the influence of the next siren, and so on. As the captain of the ship possesses the key to each set of signals, he soon notes which is the siren whose sound-waves are most distinctly audible; and, as he knows the exact direction in which it points, he can get a very good idea of the po-sition of his ship.

AVARICE IS HEALTHY.

Keeps One Cool, Encourages Industry, Abstemiousness and Stendiness.

"The passions' effect on the health s not sufficiently regarded," says a physician in the Philadelphia Record. "The passion which is best for the health is avarice. It keeps one cool, encourages regular and industrious habits, leads to abstemiousness and makes against all excess. And hence the avaricious, the misers, live to a great age. The misers of history were all noted for their longevity. Rage is very bad for one. The passion causes an irregular, intermittent benting of the heart, and the intermittency in time may become chronic. Hatred creates fever. If we hate we grow lean. This hot passion eats us like a flame. Fear is bad for the nerves, the heart and the brain, and, therefore, be afraid. But the strangest effects of all have been caused by the passion of grief. The medical books record cases where, coming suddenly, in a violent shock, it has caused a loss of blood from the lungs in one person-paralysis of the tongue in another, and a failure of sight, or temporary blind

Pair of Notable Mules. Missouri has lately advanced two more claims to preeminence, and they both concern her most notable product, the mule. Mike Murray, of Hereford, in that state here ford, in that state, has a mule he is going to send to the exposition. It mare, eight years old, 18 hands high (six feet) at the shoulder, weighs 1,706 pounds and is still growing. The other mule resides in Joplin, but it is 32 to years old and is so gentle that it is playmate for its owner's children.

"Corn-Wheat." A new grain, known as corn-wheat, is being grown in eastern Washington.

It has the nature of both corn and CHEAT, making room for our wheat, possessing the fattening quali-ties of corn and the corn flavor. In appearance it resembles wheat. Its grains are twice as large as those of ordinary wheat. It yields 60 to 100 c bushels an acre, and seems to solve the problem of fattening hogs in the Pacific northwest, as corn is not succensfully raised in that country.
